As we sadly reported in issue #420, MAD artist and writer Dave Berg passed away on May 16th. Here is a small sampling of the many kind condolence letters we received.

I don't mind telling you that I'm writing this through teary eyes. I have been planning to write to Dave and thank him for the tremendous joy he gave me for over 35 years of reading his cartoons. This guy deserved the Nobel Prize for Humanity.

Iris Lahav, Glen Iris, Australia

It was with deep sadness that I learned of the death of Dave Berg. I never knew of MAD Magazine without his Lighter Side of... feature.

Robert Becker, Northford, CT

Thank you Mr. Berg for the many laughs and smiles. Roger Kaputnik will forever be missed.

Necessary Impurity, Via madmag.com

For as long as I have been alive, Dave Berg's The Lighter Side of... has been the literal heart of MAD Magazine. Mr. Berg's strips were always reflective of the history of the times. He will be greatly missed even by those of us who knew him only through his work.

Harold Jenkins, Olyphant, PA

Another great has passed away.
E. Park, Holdenville, OK

It is a sad loss, but we can be thankful that we had the opportunity to laugh along with him.

Tony N., Arleta, CA

For almost 40 years, Dave has been a part of my life through his art. I remember the first time my mother caught me reading MAD in the bathroom, she thought I was nuts!

George Manno, Via E-mail

I have been reading MAD Magazine since 1959. I'll really miss the feature in your rag that was written and drawn by the incomparable Dave Berg. His work is timeless.

Henry Finkelstein, Brooklyn, NY

Thanks for sharing your Berg's-Eye View with us, Dave. You taught me how to appreciate the irony in everyday situations when I was only nine years old. It has served me well ever since. So long, old friend.

MoGeo, Via madmag.com

WASTE OF SPACE

Rarely has the appellation "the Usual Gang of Idiots" been so appropriate. You choose the most closely scrutinized series in the history of broadcast media (Star Trek) and the most argued about and nitpicked extension of the franchise (Enterprise), in MAD #420, for a parody, and you get the rank of one of the bridge crew wrong? Mayweather (Bedwetter) is an ensign, not a lieutenant. Is it humanly possible that there are no Trekkies in a geek-magnet office like your own? Do you have no interns to spare five minutes of Internet research? Or were you deliberately trying to emulate the lack of continuity shown by current producers Rick Bergman and Brannon Braga by handing out random promotions? And if you're going that route, why couldn't you have given Voyager's Harry Kim an extra pip or three?

Evay Knecht, Brooklyn, NY

Evoy — In the immortal words of Captain Kirk: "Beam me up, Scotty!" —Ed.

NAME THAT TOON

I've been reading MAD for three years and you've never mentioned Monroe's last name! So can you tell me what it is? And by the way, who does Ken McClelland think he is asking you to move Monroe to the back of the magazine? I hope old Kenny catches some of the Ebola Reston strain! And add me to the "Monroe Fan Club" list while you're at it!

Arun Morace, Amherst, NY

Anne Arundel — Hmmm... Monroe's last name? Good question. It's sort of like that bizarre Seinfeld episode where we knew Kramer's last name but not his first. All right, readers, here's your assignment of the issue. What do you think Monroe's last name should be? Send us your thoughts and we'll print the best in an upcoming MAD and forward them all to Monroe writer Anthony Barbieri. Send them to Amy "The Big Barbieri" c/o MAD Magazine, 1700 Broadway, New York, NY 10019. Don't forget to include whether you'd like to join the "Monroe Fan Club," where there are no perks, no posters, no autographed pictures or secret decoder rings, but, hey, there are no dues either! —Ed.

THE LOYAL TENENBAUM

One of the great things about working at MAD is that we never know who is going to show up on our doorstep on any given day. For instance, a few weeks ago, up-and-coming star Jonah Meyerson, who played Uzi Tenenbaum in The Royal Tenenbaums, came to look around and tell us that he fears his appearance in MAD may have sunk his career forever. But to be honest, readers, while we may pretend we are this hot and hip magazine with celebrities stopping by all the time, on most days nobody stops by. Hell, we consider it a banner day if longtime co-editor Nick Meglin shows up for a few hours. There you have it, a little MAD peek behind the show biz curtain! Fa Fa!

Naughty little bears

GIVE TREES A CHANCE

Once again I received my MAD Magazine and while reading it, those annoying loose subscription cards are the blame once again for a paper cut. I already subscribe to your magazine, so why on Earth are they in there? Do you think I am that stupid to order another subscription? Besides, how many trees could be saved if you didn't include them in the magazines of your subscribers? Did you ever think of that?

Joseph Bloomberg, Cape Coral, FL

Jo Jo — Buried in your letter is an intriguing question — do we think you're that stupid to order another subscription? We assume you meant it in a rhetorical way — well, dream on. Yeah, we bet that you're that stupid and more! You're so worried about us saving trees by not putting subscription cards in the magazines — well, here's a little rhetorical question for you: If one of those trees fell in the forest and landed smack on your head, would it make you even more stupid than you already are? We don't think so! Lastly, as for your paper cut, we don't think you should seek medical treatment, rather, we'd prefer to close this response with the mental image of you just sitting there hemorrhaging and hemorrhaging. Thanks for writing and THANKS FOR SUBSCRIBING! —Ed.

AN INTERN FOR THE WORSE

A special thanks goes out to MAD summer editorial interns Jules Lipoff, Kevin Kirby, Paul Kulis and Cameron Williams. Also a big thank you to the MAD summer art interns Joe Quinones and Benjamin Flores. If you are a college student and are interested in a summer internship, send a SASE with a note requesting information about the internships and we will send you all you need to know about how to apply in February, 2003. Send your letters to Amy Vozeolas, Internship Director, MAD Magazine, 1700 Broadway, New York, NY 10019!

ENVELOPE OF THE MONTH

Carol Flatau of Boothwyn, PA gets the great honor of sending in our Envelope of the Month. As you know, there no prizes, no free subscriptions, no cash rewards and nobody cares! Congrats on your pathetic little life and thanks for writing!

A HORSE IS A HORSE OF COURSE OF COURSE!

I was reading issue #420 and was looking at the picture on the cover and then the other page that tells who everyone is. I looked at the picture of Jar Jar Binks and read the caption. It states that character #6 is Celine Dion. Then #22 shows a picture of Celine Dion with the caption saying it is Jar Jar Binks. I would just like you to be aware of your mistake.

John Walaszek, Noblesville, IN

I noticed a mistake in issue #420. When you showed the outline for who's who on the cover of MAD #420, you said that Jar Jar Binks' outline was Celine Dion and the Celine Dion's outline was Jar Jar Binks.

Benji Gibicsar, Menomonee Falls, WI

In the "Who's Who On Our Ridiculous Cover" in Mad #420, you said that #6 was Celine Dion and #22 was Jar Jar Binks, actually, it's the other way around! Stephen Michael, Cherry Hills Village, CO

Sorry, dear readers, we went back to double-check and we stand by our reporting! —Ed.

MAD CELEBRITY SNAPS

This month we have a double header Celebrity Snap! Direct from the fast track, it's racing legend Richard Petty (sent in by Jess Barrios, Jr. of N. Las Vegas, NV) and from a much slower lane, Florida Governor Jeb Bush (caught on camera by longtime MAD fan Dr. David Lubin of Tampa, FL). Just as this issue is going to press, the citizens of Florida will be going to the polls to say whether Jeb Bush should be re-elected. If history is any indication, we're sure the Governor will find "a way" to win! So Jess, look for a three-year subscription in the mail and Dr. Dave, you'll be getting a one-year subscription. Chad — oops, we mean Ciao!

MAD CEMETERY SNAPS

My long search is finally over. After seeing your free subscription offer with the picture of MAD near a dead celebrity, I was really stumped on which celebrity I would have to kill in order to get my free subscription. How foolish did I feel when I realized that all I had to do was to take a picture near a tombstone! Enclosed please find my picture with MAD next to the tombstone of the biggest celebrity of them all — the Bambino, the Sultan of Swat, the Home Run King, the Whopper — otherwise known as George Herman Ruth — the Babe! With all the money I am going to save with a free subscription, I can finally move out of my parents' house! Kevin Gorrasi, Bronxville, NY.

All right Kev, you get the one-year free subscription, but if we were you we wouldn't be too hasty moving out of the house that Mom and Dad built! Based on this one picture of you, we feel confident in our belief that you're not the type of guy to make it on your own. Love to the folks! —Ed.

We're making you an offer you should refuse...but please don't! On sale now is MAD About the Mob — with 96 pages of gun-toting goombahs, hard-boiled bad guys and over two tons of combined Marlon Brando and Tony Soprano girth!

WE HAVEN'T THE VEGA-EST IDEA

Back in MAD #418 we asked readers to give their interpretation of the mysterious lyrics by Suzanne Vega: "I'm amusing. I'm a puppet for your play. Am I your MAD Magazine?" from her song "Machine Ballerina." Hundreds, nay thousands...oh who the hell are we kidding, a handful of you wasted the time and postage to write in what you thought this intriguing sentence meant. Unfortunately, since Suzanne wasn't one of them, we still don't know exactly what it means, but here's a sampling of what some of you sent in.

"Am I Your MAD Magazine?" means...

...do I make you laugh so hard that milk squirts out of your nose, like MAD Magazine!
— Ariel Lesnick, Yonkers, NY

...She's no good between the covers anymore! — Bruce Launer, Chadron, NE

...She's really confessing that her work is garbage! — Conrad Ely, Spokane, WA

...She has no lighter side, she's not worth $3.50 and what, me worry? She should, just look at her record sales!
— Joe Ciarelli, North Haven, CT

...You're an annoying pest — useless, pathetic, worthless parasite. But you make me laugh and since you won't leave, amuse me!
— Laura Pearlstein, Stoughton, MA

...It's because when you fold her up, you can see a completely different picture!
— Dylan Flynn, Le Barroux, France

GETTING CAUGHT WITH HIS RANTS DOWN DEPT.

So, Dennis Miller's tenure as an analyst on Monday Night Football was about as successful as Napoleon's crossing of the Berezina. And his talk show is as dead as Strom Thurmond's grandpappy. But there are plenty of other opportunities out there for a man so adept at being simultaneously obnoxious and esoteric, like these...

United States Surgeon General

JOURNALISM 101
MR. MILLER

In the 21st Century, most big city newspapers are about as healthy as John Travolta's Boy In The Plastic Bubble character after walking through an Ebola colony downwind from a Union Carbide plant!

Tiger Woods' Caddy

What is the sound of one hand clapping? If a tree falls in the forest and no one hears it, does it make a sound? If there's a just and powerful God, how can there be a Crocodile Hunter movie? These haunting questions may keep you awake at night — but, truth be told, they're just small potatoes! There's a far more baffling and mind-numbing mystery out there — and it's right under our noses! Rest assured, though, you'll sleep like a baby after MAD answers the world's most perplexing question:

WHY IS GEORGE W. BUSH'S APPROVAL RATING SO HIGH?

ARTIST: RICK TULKA

WRITER: BARRY LIEBMAN

- Most negative poll results were placed behind Jeb Bush's couch along with the "Gore" Florida ballots.

- Most people are afraid to say what they really think because under Bush's "Patriot Act," any negative criticism, no matter how slight, is considered an act of treason.

- The poll tallies were tabulated by Enron accountants Arthur Andersen.

- Nowadays, most people are willing to give high marks to any President who keeps his pants on in the Oval Office.

- Many respondents thought the pollsters were asking about Anheuser-Busch.

- A majority of people really do identify with him, especially since they too don't have a clue about how to run the country.

- Bush's "little boy" look is endearing to parents, grandparents and little old ladies, not to mention the growing number of known pedophile priests.

- For a shot at another $300 tax rebate, most Americans would approve of Saddam Hussein.

- The questionnaires were printed on the backs of fat, federal farm subsidy checks.

- The hole in the ozone layer that Bush doesn't believe in has fried everybody's brain.

WHY IS GEORGE W. BUSH'S APPROVAL RATING SO HIGH?

- A goofy, inarticulate dad with a substance-abusing past trying to control his rebellious, nutso kids: Many Americans think he's the West Wing version of Ozzy Osbourne.

- Traditionally anti-Bush environmentalists refused to be polled because the questionnaires were not printed on recycled paper, thereby skewing the results.

- The numbers were inflated by crafty Democrats to give Bush the same false sense of security his father had before getting trounced by Clinton in '92.

- The statistical pool? Made up of lobbyists, defense contractors and comedy writers with a trunk full of moron jokes.

- Soft-hearted Americans don't want to do anything to make him nervous and choke on another pretzel.

What makes a religion a good religion? For some people, it's the promise of a next life that won't suck like this one. For others, it's an official license to feel superior to your heathen neighbors. For still others, it's the possibility (however slight) of getting to rub elbows with Tom Cruise or John Travolta at your church. What makes a religion a bad religion? In the past, you often didn't know until you wound up dead in a mass suicide-by-poisoned Kool Aid, when it was too late! Which is why we at MAD have compiled a comprehensive list of...

EARLY SIGNS YOU MAY HAVE PICKED A BAD RELIGION

Instead of guaranteeing an afterlife in a palace filled with 72 virgins in exchange for going on a suicide mission... they promise you one retired Rockette in a double-wide trailer!

Their coming-of-age ritual involves a bottle of Jack Daniels, a '68 El Camino and a railroad crossing!

They can't con a single gullible Hollywood celebrity into joining and helping them "spread the word"!

Their religious dietary laws mention Cheez Whiz 847 times!

All of their holy statues and icons are stamped either "Mattel" or "Hasbro"!

The entire liturgy is in limerick form!

Their idea of a miracle (that proves the existence of God): how bowling pins magically reappear after you knock them down!

Their confessions are through a 1-900 number, at a charge of $1.99 per minute!

Their two Communion sacraments: anchovies and Fresca!

At baptism, you get held underwater for 12 minutes!

It may be true that we've squandered countless opportunities for a lasting humor legacy, but perhaps it's not too late. By using important sounding sentences like the last, in conjunction with big words like "ephemeral" and "perquisite" (that don't look like they're spelled correctly, but when you check them it turns out they are), we may find ourselves on the road to the first Pulitzer Prize for lame MAD article introductions. Intrinsic (good word, right?) to this is the underlying quest for comic poignancy (oh, yeah!) and overall satirical relevance. Raillery, another word found in the thesaurus under "humor," also seems to fit well in this paragraph. And, yes, it is spelled correctly. We move on now to the ensuing (swееееет!) reason for all this: a dumb premise we slapped together with the title...

MAD'S COMPREHENSIVE 10-STEP GUIDE TO SUCCESS IN THE HIGHLY CHARGED WORLD OF ILLEGAL TICKET SCALPING

ARTIST AND WRITER:

1 Always know your product.

2 Don't attempt to scalp tickets to any event where admission is free.

3 Avoid unnecessary employee expenditures. Ask yourself, "Do I really need mailroom guys?"

4 Keep in mind that the seating chart is not always an effective selling tool.

5 Selling door-to-door is generally not a road to success.

6 When working Broadway show matinees, remember to allow extra time for blue-haired tourists to rifle through their purses for the correct change.

8 Always remember that you are an illegal ticket scalper and are under no obligation to ask the OSHA-mandated "Are you prone to nosebleeds?" question.

10 Don't hesitate to pile on vague fees and tax charges — just like Ticketmaster and other so-called legitimate ticket sellers do.

Where do waiters get off asking, "Do you want change?" when you hand them a $20 bill to pay for a measly $8 tab?

Where do credit card companies get off rejecting you for their lousy card when the only reason you applied for the damn thing in the first place was because they said you were "pre-approved"?

Where do politicians who drank and used drugs when they were teens get off pushing for harsh and unfair prison terms for teens who drink and use drugs now?

Where do TV networks get off labeling their lousy repeats as "encore performances" when nobody — but nobody — asked to see them again?

KESSE

Now that the Microsoft Operating System runs virtually every computer, Microsoft is turning its attention to other marketing venues. They're pushing their Pocket PC, their Xbox and their new ".NET" software. But soon we fear that the ever greedy and aggressive Microsoft will use their "expertise" to market everything, even low-tech gadgets. Then, no matter what you buy, they'll claim you can feel "the power of Microsoft" behind you. Yes, that's what that pain in your ass will be, Microsoft behind you! For instance, here's what would happen....

IF Microsoft MADE EGG TIMERS

Thank you for purchasing the Microsoft Egg Timing System.

You now have the power of Microsoft in your kitchen to handle one of the most demanding cooking tasks: making a soft-boiled egg!

Thanks to Microsoft, the hassles of old-fashioned egg timers are a thing of the past. No more will you have to go through the inconvenient and unpleasant ordeal of turning the egg timer over to start the sand falling. Now, the freedom, convenience and precision of microchip-egg timing technology is in your hands! Once you've properly configured your system, you can enjoy a perfectly-timed egg every time, regardless of the time of day, even if it's daylight savings time or standard time! With the Microsoft Egg Timing System, it's simpler than ever!

GETTING STARTED

After you set the date, time, year, country code, language and pick a theme for your kitchen "countertop," you'll be on your way to an egg timer that can automatically and precisely count down from three minutes to zero seconds. And it's able to do that in just about three minutes.*

To activate your Egg Timer you must first fill out the online registration form at mymicrosofteggtimer.com. Please have the following information handy as you will need it to complete the simple four-hour registration process:

- your name • address • social security number
- date of birth • retailer ID number
- your default password: scramble
- product serial number, which can be easily found by carefully removing the casing of the Microsoft Egg Timing System motherboard
- type of pot in which you intend to boil your egg

* An $85 upgrade that will enable you to personally customize your Microsoft Egg Timing System for 15 seconds more or 15 seconds less will be available in the second quarter of 2003.

By completing this registration process, Microsoft will be able to contact you with news and information about Egg Timer upgrades and virus warnings. You'll also receive exciting mail, email and telephone solicitations from our strategic corporate partners offering you products and services relating to your Egg Timing System, or not relating to your Egg Timing System. It's up to them.

THE EGG WIZARD

When you first use your Microsoft Egg Timing System, you will be greeted by the Egg Wizard, Eggy. Eggy will ask you a series of questions in order to find out what food you want to prepare. Since the Microsoft Egg Timing System can only be used to time eggs, Eggy will need to ask you a mere 25 questions before it confirms that you want to soft-boil an egg.

SAVING YOUR EGG COOKING PROFILE

The default setting for cooking your soft-boiled egg is three minutes. Even so, after cooking your first soft-boiled egg, you must save this time measurement in your personal cooking profile by giving it a file name with the extension ".egg." (Failure to do so will cause your Microsoft Egg Timing System to freeze up and never work again.) It's that easy!

COMPATIBILITY

Please note: Not every egg is the same. Therefore, we recommend you exclusively use Microsoft Brand eggs produced by Gates Farms, where the chickens are specially raised to be compatible with your Egg Timer's operating system. If your eggs are undercooked or overdone and NOT from Gates Farms, the problem isn't with our Egg Timer. Please contact your poultry producer or conduct a professional analysis of your local water supply (which could affect boiling properties).

PASSWORD PROTECTION

If you don't want other people in your household to know how much time is spent cooking your three-minute egg, you may want to password-protect your "Personal Cooking Profile." Eggy the Egg Wizard will help you pick a hard-to-guess password by suggesting 50,000 non-words consisting of random strings of letters, numbers and Cyrillic characters to replace the easy-to-remember default password you used during the registration process. Choose one, but for security reasons we strongly recommend that you NOT write it down! We also strongly recommend you NOT forget it, because without the password your Microsoft Egg Timing System will freeze up and never work again. In the event this happens, contact Microsoft, and we will assist you in purchasing another Egg Timing System.

TECH SUPPORT

Technical support for your Microsoft Egg Timing System is available 24 hours a day at $1.99 per minute ($2.99 for poached egg support).

Licensing Agreement

The Microsoft Egg Timing System may only be used to time eggs by the person to whom it is registered. Unauthorized use by other members of the family or visiting guests may result in fines, jail terms and seizure of uncooked dairy products. Please read and familiarize yourself with the entire 274-page Microsoft licensing agreement packed with this product. NOTE: Using your Microsoft Egg Timing System for any other reason, such as to time moves during Scrabble games, voids all warranties, express and implied, for this product.

These days it's common wisdom that all politicians are crooks. But there are big differences!
